Bisque introduces innovative ombre finish across its classic collection of radiators

Bisque, the London-based pioneer of luxurious radiators for stylish interiors, has introduced its latest new finish; a distinctive, 'dip-dyed' ombre style. As a brand already widely recognised for offering the widest selection of colours and finishes around, this latest new style only further strengthens Bisque's colour portfolio. The new ombre finish invites Bisque customers to choose between 4-6 shades. These are carefully applied from light to dark to each Classic during a special application process. This new finish also takes advantage of Bisque's colour-matching service, where it can cater to popular paint brands such as Farrow & Ball and Little Greene.

Available in both horizontal and vertical models, the Classic is by far Bisque's most versatile design. Fondly referred to as the old school-style radiator, the Classic has an enduring appeal and a fantastic heat output, and suits a wide range of interiors, from cosy cottage to contemporary townhouse. In addition to thirty-eight stock sizes, it can even be made-to-order when only a particular size will do.
